An Astrological Weekend with Verena Bachmann

February 13 & 14, 2010

CYCLES of CHANGE: living in times of transition

Verena's focus on the theme of change is timely for astrologers as the outer planets continue to dynamically interact with each other. The Uranus-Pluto square is building as Saturn currently squares Pluto. Having just finished its conjunction to Neptune, Jupiter speeds through Pisces to conjoin Uranus at the first degree of the Zodiac. What might this mean in terms of our experiences in the world and personal relationships? This weekend Verena will focus on the powerful planetary aspects that are being coined the Cardinal Crisis and how this energetic picture affects our personal lives.

February 13 10 am – 4.30 pm

Critical Cycles and their effect on Individual Horoscopes

Today Verena will explore the current celestial patterning and demonstrate how this impacts our horoscopes and what this means in terms of our own personal experience.

February 14 10 am – 4.30 pm

Changing Models of Relationship

Appropriately, as today is Valentine's Day, Verena will explore the changing dynamics of relationships and how social and cultural norms are shifting synchronistically with the unfolding astrological pattern.

Verena Bachmann is a well-known international astrologer from Zurich, Switzerland who has presented many inspirational seminars for Astro*Synthesis. Verena's forte is synthesising the fields of astrology, Psychosynthesis and human development to aid in deepening our understanding of ourselves and others.
